While heavy punishments are in some cases ordered to be inflicted on peculators and other wrong doers, in others only nominal penalties are inflicted on the culprits. Thus, the late Acting Governor-General of Yünnan and Kweichow, for an error in an expose of the shortcomings of one of his subordinates, is to be mulcted in for want of straightforwardness in a report. rank. A note appended to the abstract says rowers to be held after the race. The supervising Censors act as a species of Audit Board, to secure the exact fulfilment of the letter of official regulations in all matters relating to the six administrative Boards. Mulets of salary (which is never drawn), and the withdrawal of steps of honorary rank (which are conferred with a special view to the contingency), are the penalties forming the result of their labours. If a Governor-General exhibits a want of straightforwardness is his degradation by one step of honorary rank sufficient punishment?. Possibly by a little more want of straightforwardness he may succeed in recovering his lost honour. Finesse is evidently. the great requisite to success in the Chinese civil and military service. An official who possesses this in a high degree may rest assured of his well-being. Take the following example:—"The Governor of Yunnan memorializes forwarding a statement presented by the ex-General-in-chief, YANG YU-K'o, narrating the particulars of the benefactions he had conferred upon the population of the western section of Yannan, from whence the majority of the 'braves' had been drawn with whose aid he had re-captured Ta-li Fu and the other cities held by the Mahomedan | S. THE "SHAH" AND THE "HUASCAR.

under date July 5th .- " A revolution broke out very cleverly and took possession of the most powerful gumboat that the Government possesses. With this vessel they left for Iquique, but stopped to take coal at Pisagua, which port they took by assault, after a brief skirmish with the authorities, sixpeople, including the Commissario. being killed and many wounded. The rebels also stopped the English steamers John Elder and Santa Rosa on the high seas. The Government declared the Huascar a rebel and a pirate, and authorized foreign Navies to capture herwherever and whenever she was met with. The English Admiral De Horsey, on board the new flagship Shah, immediately went in pursuit, and came across the Huascur in a port called Ilo. some 100 miles north of Iquique. He sent a boat on board to summon the Hugscar to surrender, which the latter refused to do, whereupon the Shah opened fire, backed up by the Amethyst. A brisk engagement ensued, and in a few minutes the Huascar. would have sunk, but darkness came on, and the fight was suspended, and the Hauscar was allowed to escape during the night, though a vigilant watch was supposed to have been kept-on board both English vessels. The Huascar immediately made for Iquique, and surrendered to the Government squadron then in the Bay. spreading the report that she had encountered the Shah and the Amethyst outside, that the former had accidentally sunk the latter by an ill-directed shot, and that afterwards the Huascar had put one of her big shot into the Shah below the water-mark, so she had sunk within ton minutes afterwards. The excitement in Lquique was intense, many Englishmen believing that our ship ON LONDON. had really come to grief. The natives were most exultant over it; and all the bar-rooms and hotels were crowded with 'niggers' drinking to the supposed success of the Huascar (rebel though she was) against the Grangoes. THE POLES The Standard romarks - Were the Polish people to decide upon bringing their wrongs once more before the bar of the public opinion of Europe it is certain that at the present juncture they would not find Europe or England a cold and callous spectator. PLEVNA.

This place is about, as the crow flies, 27 miles S.S.W. of Nikopol, on the Danube, and five miles east of the Vid, one of the largest of the tributaries that descend from the northern slopes of the Balkans to the Danube. According to Kanitz, a recent Austrian traveller, the town has a population of 1,627 Mahometan and 1,474 Christian families, comprising about 17,000 souls. There are eighteen mosques, nine minarets; and two churches—one named after Saints Cyril and Methodius, the apostles of Bulgaria, the other after St. Peter. Yet the French Consul Lejean dismisses it with the brief remark. " Ville agreable au bout de quelques heures j'en ai assez." Indece. the time arrived, and perhaps it was not far dis-fant, England would not lose the opportunity.— almost the only object of interest in it is the hospital, which, like most other works of public usefulness or benevelence in these regions—reads, schools, orphanages, savings banks, &c., is a creation of Midhat Pacha while he was governor of the vilayet of the Danube some years ago. The physician or surgeon was a German. Butgarians, Circassians, Tartars, gipsies used the hospital; the Turks seldom, and with the greatest unwillingness. At the time of Kanitz's visit, there were a normal school and eight Turkish elementary schools, which were attended by 1,654 had 921 boys and 50 girls. The river on which Plevna stands is the Tusewica, which just below the town is joined by the stream from Griwica, and the united waters fall into the Vid, about seven miles lower down. The valley is cut through limestone formation; steep, rough cliffs rise precipitously on the northern side, but the banks on the southern side are less difficult. All the heights are covered with fruit trees and shrubs, which made Plevna a very pretty object when seen from a distance. It is worth noting, that most of the land all around is the property of Mussulman Bulgarians, descendants of rene rangement does not tend to promote harmony

The great gold mine of Los Cristales, at Canouenes in Chili was abandoned at a time when the Chilians were slooting each other, and "An English Resident in Iquique" writes trying to overturn the Government. IMPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE string to Commerce and Shipping. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION:-An Angle-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have to late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body thereby affecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins Mercantile, and General Offices. and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

Many boxes of letters are received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with sealing wax, but there is no impression of a seal. The attention of boxholders is called to the necessity of carefully sealing such boxes with some recognisable seal, and of sending a chitbook or receipt with them. The omission of the latter precaution leaves a doubt as to whether the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office: the omission of the former, as to whether part of thom might not have been abstracted for the sake of the Postage Stamps. The attention of owners, agents, and charterers of steamers is drawn to the provisions of The Post Office Ordinance, 1876, which comes into force on the 23rd instant. Under the old Ordinance no notice was required of the departure of a vessel if not advertised, nor of departures for Canton or Merao. Notice is now required of any departure, though with regard to sailing ships, the old rule will practically remain in force, that notice need not be sent unless asked for. Section XXV. requires that the first notice be sent to the Post Office. T. CARLYLE. "TAFPING THE TELEGRAPH,"

Reckoning on popular support in the invaded districts, Morgan, and his comrades entered Kentucky at the commencement of July, taking with them a portable electric battery, which was placed in charge of Mr. Ellsworth, a telegraphic operator. The use to which this battery was applied presents a perfectly new feature in warfare, showing how the operations of modern armies may be assisted by the inventions of science. The small town of Glasgow having been seized. Mr. Ellsworth took down the telegraphic wire, and connected it with his pocket instrument, so that he was enabled to intercept and read the messages passing between Nash ville and Louisville—that is to say, between one Federal station and another. Mr. Ells. worth represented himself as the telegraphic operator at Louisville, and of course received a great deal of important information which was intended for very different recipients. In return, the Confederates sent messages of a nature to deceive and mislead the Union generals. At Lebanon, the same process (which was called "tapping the telegraph") was repeated, and Mr. Ellsworth despatched messages to General Boyle, commanding the Federal troops at Louisville, who supposing he was in communication with Colonel Johnson, of the Federal garrison at Lebanon, then -a prisoner in Morgan's hands, replied without reserve.—" Cassell's History of the United

CURIOSITY REWARDED. We had heard much of the extreme beauty Shekunel, and I had a natural curiosity to get a glance at the inaccessible lady. Fortune seemed to favour my wishes, for the Sheik informed me, with expressions of great grief, that his infaut child—the child of his old age and of his levely spouse-was dangerously ill, and as I had, the credit of being, and, indeed, bore the name of "El Hakeem el Keeber" (the Great Doctor)—for they, were not learned enough to distinguish between a doctor of laws and a doctor of medimarvellous cures. He entreated me, therefore, to heal his little boy, which I expressed my willingness to attempt, but said I must first see the mo ber, and talk with her of the child's ailments. He said that was impossible, as an unbeliever could not be introduced into the harem of one of the faithful but the child would be brought to me. said that I could not prescribe for the child without seeing the mother, but he repeated, the mother with some inquiries as to the symptoms. She answered, but I said I could but imperfectly understand as she spoke Arabic, so I asked her to remove her veil. She resisted, when I observed that European physicians studied the diseases of childrenin the countenances of their mothers. I became peremptory, and at last she slowly raised her veil, when, instead of the angelic beauty I had expected, I was confronted with the face of a hideous hag, who said to me, "I am the old wife." The Sheik laughed, as, indeed, he had a right to do, and I could not but join in the laugh, for the trick had succeeded admirably .- Autobiographical Re-

The next dance was the most graceful of all. It is called "The Waves of the Sea," and represented the sea coming up on the reef. The dresses of the men were much the same as in the last, but there were also a number of children bright likus, and with garlands of leaves and flowers. First of all, they formed into a long line; then, breaking the line, danced forward, ten or twelve at a time, for a few steps, bending down their bodies and spreading out their hands, as the little shoots from a wave run up on the beach Then wave after wave rolled in, and then at the end of the long_line ran round, first, a few at a time, some falling back again; La Grande has a case of John Gilpinism, then more and more, as the tide runs up on the shore-side of the reef, and nothing
